

MASTER YOUR TASKS

PRIORITIZATION AND TIME MANAGEMENT

CHOICE
Keep letting the loudest request dictate your day, or pick a simple system that forces you to choose what matters first.

CHART

C
CAPTURE EVERY DEMAND
Dump all tasks, meetings, and ideas into one list. Avoid vague entries. Use specific, actionable items.

H
SORT BY IMPACT
Pick the three tasks that move your goals forward. Urgency is not impact. Anchor choices to long-term value.

1.

2.

3.

A
BLOCK PEAK HOURS
Place the top three tasks into early morning time blocks. Block 90-120 minutes per task. Define exact start/end.

R
PROTECT FOCUS
Silence phone, close extra tabs, and set digital boundaries. Write concrete protocols. Pre-plan deflection scripts.

T
REVIEW AND RESET
Audit progress before stopping work. Move only what matters. Track completion rate. Adjust blocks based on daily data.

FINAL COMMAND
A full schedule is not a victory. A controlled day is. The top three priorities I will execute tomorrow are:

1
DUMP AND SORT
Clear your mind by listing every task, then rank by real impact. Stop fighting loud urgency.

2
BLOCK AND SHIELD
Place top priorities into early morning slots. Lock down your environment to prevent distractions.

3
REVIEW AND RESET
Check daily results, carry forward only what matters. Cut the rest to build a repeatable rhythm.
